HONGKONG, TUESDAY, AUGUST 1, 1882.

WE can scarcely be induced to believe that I to pick the pocket of Patrick Hyland, a fireman the Reuter's telegram published in our columns yesterday, in which we are told on the authority of Earl Granville, the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, that informal communications are being exchanged by the Commander of the British' troops in Egypt with Arabi Bey, can be taken to signify anything beyond the strict and literal meaning of the words used. And in that case the telegram is of no importance whatever, as it fails to throw the slightest gleam of light on the positions or intentions of either of the belligerents. It may however, he accepted as a matter of certainty now that Great Britain has let loose the dogs of war, and is pouring her red-coated legions into the "Land of the Pharaohs," that the Egyptian Question, if not that bugbear of politicians, the perennial Eastern Question Itself, will be placed on a more substantial basis than has been the case for many years past, before the descendants of the warriors who followed the gallant ABERcommutation and death nearly a century ago will surrender the footing they have obtained in the "key to our Indian Empire."

in the House of Lords, said that "informal communications are being exchanged with Arabi fley." The Foreign Secretary, it would seem, discreetly committed himself to this extent -- and no farther. Even in time of war informal communications are frequently exchanged between belligerents. To what possible end can these particular "Informal communications" lead? It may be assumed as a certainty that the only terms Great Britain will offer to the Egyptian chief, must be based in the first instance, on the unconditional surrender of himself and army, "Informal communications" are being exchanged; but meanwhile the House of Commons has granted the extraordinary vote of credit to supply the sinews of war, the reserves have been called out, the militia ordered to be ready for duty, and from India, as well as from the sea-girt shores of Britain, fast steamers are ploughing the waves, bearing the defenders of our country's interests and rights to the scene of conflict. "Informal communications." are being carried on, and no doubt both sides are playing the same game, and for the same stake-delay. There are but few British troops in Egypt as yet, and if Arabi Bey knew anything of the science of warfare, or had the slightest confidence in his rabble army, he would long ere now have swooped down upon the few thousand Britishers encamped at Alexandria and overpowered them by force of numbers. But Arabi apparently lacks confidence both in himself and his followers. His game is perfectly transparent, and the "informal communications" are merely a ruse, like the flags of truce when the British bombardment of Alexandria made that city too hot for the redoubtable Colonel and his Egyptian braves, to gain time. Arabi is simply the tool of the Sultan, who is probably the tool of somebody else, and as we are aware that preparations for war are being carried on in hot haste at Constantinople, the Egyptian leader's hope is in the Turkish squadron from the Golden Horn landing an army of Ottomans on the plains of Egypt before the arrival of British reinforcements. We can easily understand the British commander's desire for delay. At present he is discreet to lie quietly at Alexandria, protected by the guns of the fleet, as an advance against a force probably outnumbering his by ten to one would be reckless folly. A few days more and the Egyptian coasts will be blockaded and guarded by the most powerful fleet of war vessels the world has ever seen, while well appointed British armies advancing from Alexandria on the one side, and Suez on the other, must have an easy task in disposing of Arabi Bey and his undisciplined rabble. But will it end there? Who can say? Turkey can do nothing unless supported by at least one of the Great Powers, and it would be a difficult riddle to read in the present state of political feeling in Europe, to point out one power which could afford to support the Porte against a British occupation of Egypt. The firm attitude of Britain may avert war, and yet he would be a sanguine man who would rely on this contingency. We must patiently wait for the dinohement.

THE St. Petersburg correspondent of the London Telegraph wires on June 22nd that through the recent discovery of a Nihilist hiding-place in the Vassili Island, St. Petersburg, the police were enabled, on the night of the Saturday preceding, Earl Granville, in reply to a question to make a raid upon a second Nihilist haunt situate in Fornary-street, and to make several more arrests. It is also stated that amongst the persons arrested by the police on the occasion of the selzure in the Vassilli Ostrow, was one of the leaders of the Nihilists, who was disguised as a woman. WE (Hiego News) notice in the Echo du Japon a paragraph to the effect that the Japanese Minister for Foreign Affairs had received a telegram stating that only a portion of Alexandria has been burned. This appears much more like the actual fact than the total destruction of the city previously announced.

WE read that, a telegraph instrument has now been invented which will transmit six messages, three each way, on the same wire. The highest point reached up to the present time in this line was the quadruplex instrument, which would transmit two messages each way on the same line. This transmitter is largely used by the Post Office for the transmission of messages between London and the large provincial towns,

A CORRESPONDENT writes to Truth :- The Bishop of Peterborough's joke about "the reilgious duty" is not original, for about ten years ago, when Mr. Baird, of Gartsherrie, gave half a million to the Free Church of Scotland, I well remember hearing the late Mr. James Merry wind up some caustic remarks about the declaration that "he was d-d if it was not the largest fire insurance ever he hadheard of." The saying went all round Scotland, and was appreciated by no class more than by the " Ministers and Elders" of the sect towards which Mr. Baird had displayed such unexampled liberality.

A COMPLETE exposure of the state of affairs in the Sandwich Islands has, says the Nagasaki Express, recently been made, which, it is more than likely, will entirely frustrate any designs King Kalakauwa might have had in view during his recent trip round the world, in regard to the encouragement of immigration to his scantily populated domain. As a field for the labouring classes, Hawaii has long been viewed with suspicion, but it has been left for the Government of Norway and Sweden to fully and impartially investigate the matter, at the instigation of a number of their ill-treated subjects. A Commissioner, Mr. Lange, was sent overin a man-of-war, And the result of his enquiries fully proves by facts and figures that slavery is rife in its vilest and most repulsive form, and that the statements and reports of their Consular official were utterly devoid of truth,—which points to the fact that bribery has been practised to endeavour to hide the foul trade. The report concludes by warning immigrants against the risk they are incurring in binding themselves to a term of service on the

THE remanded case in which police Sergeant James Hill, stationed at Pok-fo-lum, was charged with assaulting an old Chinaman, a head-coolie, was on again yesterday morning before Mr. Wodehouse. On Friday, it will be remembered, the Magistrate ordered the defendant, who complained of being badly burt internally, to be taken to the Colonial Surgeon to be examined. InspectorHennessy statedyesterday morning that the complainant had been sent to the Civil Hospital, and he produced the following letter from the Colonial Surgeon:-" This man is covered all over with, some black stuff. It is impossible to ascertain if he has any injuries without he is put under observation. I recommend he be sent to the Civil Hospital and detained there for observation." Dr. Stockwell, the acting Superintendent of the hospital, wrote upon the hospital report that there was no evidence of any injury, and that the complainant was evidently a bad life. THE dead body of a coolie, aged about 40 years, was found by a Chinese Constable in Ship Street shortly before six o'clock yesterday morning, and was sent to the Civil Hospital, where an inquest was to be held on it this afternoon. DONALD STEWART, a seaman of the steamship Ægenn, was up again this morning, before Mr. Wodehouse, for being drunk and disorderly in the public street. Sikh Constable Jeet Singh saw Stewart yesterday near the Clock Tower in a state of incbriation entirely inconsistent with the maintenance of equilibrium. Whilst reeling about and attempting to recover his lost balance, Donald's corpus came into collision with a gentleman's chair which happened to be passing. When arrested by the Sikh, Stewart became violent at his liberty being thus infringed upon, being unable to comprehend that he was deprived of it for his own good. This time Donald got a double dose, being sent to gaol for two days, upon his failing to disburse half-a-dollar. Through unable upon two occasions to pay the small fine of 50 cents imposed, yet Donald is apparently never at a loss to obtain fire-water in immoderate quantities.

IN our references to Mr. Consul General Loureiro yesterday, we omitted to state that, in reply to the notice of his expulsion from the Club Lusitano, he had instructed a solicitor to write to the Club Committee threatening them with legal proceedings unless he was immediately reinstated as a member. The Committee very properly treated the communication with silent contempt; and we venture to predict that the threatened legal action will end in smoke. There is one way-and only one-by which Mr. Loureiro has any chance of being re-admitted into the Club Lusitano. Let him write a proper letter of apology to the Committee, to be communicated to the community he so grossly insulted, and he will no doubt find his countrymen ready to condone his past indiscretions. A man who frankly acknowledges his fault, and apologises for the same, is a fit subject for lenient treatment. We are quite certain that our Portuguese friends will be ready to receive from Mr. Loureiro an expression of sincere regret for his injudicious conduct, and will accept it as a medium for removing the ban of social ostracism which their action in expelling their Consul General from the Club Lusitano has placed upon him. We hope to settle our little differences with Consul General Loureiro to-morrow.

Ray, C. D. Bottomley, and W. H. Ray (Secretary). The Chairman said the report would be taken as read, and he hoped the statement of accounts had given satisfaction. The Company's business was expanding, and although the profit and loss account credit was not much in excess of the previous year, yet it should be remembered that the rates of premia everywhere had become considerably decreased, and present results were due to a largely increasing business, which he hoped would continue. The receipts for the first three months of the current year were very encouraging. The losses, he was sorry to say, were above former years' averages, but yet by no means excessive. The payment to contributors was according to the rate of last year, a small laddition being made to that to shareholders; a sum of $25,000 was left to be transferred to the credit of the reserve fund, and $100,000 to be carried to new working

There being no questions, the Chairman proposed the adoption of the report and accounts which was seconded by Mr. Wicking and carried unanimously.

The confirmation of the appointment of Mr. Hassell to a seat on the board was moved by the Chairman, -seconded by Mr. George and agreed to.

The retiring directors, Messrs. Schmacker and Thurburn, were re-elected on the motion of Mr. Sassoon, seconded by Mr. Hassell. Messrs. T. Arnold and W. Forrest were re-elected auditors on the motion of Mr. Poesnecker, seconded by Mr. McIver. This brought the business to a conclusion.

NEW YORK, June 28th. A cable special to the Herald from Alexandria says:-The impression caused by the Sultan sending the Mojedic decoration to Arabi Bey is very varied. By some Europeans it is considered as a great blunder; by others, including some of the official class, it is regarded as indicating the Sultan's intention to bribe Arabi to obey the wishes of Europe. Some Arabs also hold this opinion. One prominent Egyptian remarked to Sir Auckland Colvin; "We often butter our bread before eating." The Arab National party, however, regard the decoration as a sign of the Sultan's approval of Arabi's rebellion, hence it is possible that it may have a bad consequence. ALEXANDRIA, June 28th.

sequences for the moment are disastrous to the prestige of England and France. Preparations are being made on a large scale to block the Suez Canal. Much dissatisfaction is felt aboard the Galena at the order to proceed direct to Gibraltar, without calling for stores at Nice, as the officers have suffered enormously through helping refugees, and look upon the order, after bearing the brunt of the work, as an injustice.

The Star's Paris cablegram says:-The Alexandria correspondent of Le Temps throws rather a new light on the events of June. The Europeans at Cairo made the most desperate resistance and succeeded in inflicting infinitely heavier loss on their Arab assailants than they themselves suffered. According toofficial Egyptian figures the number of persons admitted to the hospitals reached 1350, of which number 1140, were natives; but many more were killed and wounded. The Arabs were certainly defeated. One Italian is said to have alone killed sixteen and two Maltese, armed with carbines and defended by a barricade, together shot fifty. The carnage in the Place de Faille, where 200 armed Italians and Greeks were assembled, was terrible.

LONDON, June 30th. Woolwich presented a busy aspect in consequence of war preparations upon a large scale and the dispatch of munitions of war, including explosives, to Egypt. Arrangements have been perfected by which forty thousand men can be embarked on the instant. A complete return has been ordered of marines available for foreign service. The Officers' Reserves offer the services of men for garrison duty at Chatham. A reserve siege train is being made ready for service. There is a siege train, complete with stores and appliances, ready at Malta. Orders for reserves to come on duty at a given date are said to be ready to be issued on Monday. It is said, also, that the Guards have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness for foreign service.

A Constantinople dispatch says the Conference regards speedy armed interference as necessary, and that it is improbable for any offer of Turkey to send troops to be accepted.

In the Commons the Secretary of State for India declined to state whether the Indian troops were ready to proceed to Egypt.

The Financial Secretary of the War Office stated that the troopship Orontes left yesterday, with a strong draft of marines for the Mediterranean, but no unusual expenditure was being incurred at the clock yards.

ALEXANDRIA, June 29th. Ragheb Pasha promises to dismiss the Prefect f Police and the Chief of Gendarmes.

The Government has decided to employ destitute natives on public works. It is believed that they will be put to work on the fortifications. A number of recruits arrived to-day and reenforced the garrison here.

NEW YORK, June 30th. A Star London cablegram says: There is an effort in official circles to veil the disquictude felt in consequence of the crisis in Egyptian affairs. While it is not even yet certain that war may come, the bustle and activity in the army and navy would appear to be an almost assured presage of that result. In the event of war with Egypt it is understood to be the intention of the leaders of the revolutionary party in Ireland to take advantage of England's embarrassed condition and precipitate a general rising in Ireland. It is estimated that within a few days the military strength of England at Alexandria and Malta will be greatly augmented, and that 30,000 troops of all arms will be held ready for active service. To-day 3,000 troops embarked at Portsmouth, and a like detachment goes out to-morrow. The news of the threatened revolution in Ireland causes considerable excitement here. It is now believed that plans for such a movement were secretly discussed after the recent Parnell dinner in London

The two Shantung men who shot a native policeman and a carpenter in Hongkew lately, and were handed over to the city authorities, through the British Assessor of the Mixed Court having peculiar misconceptions of his duty, are now on their way to Tientsin, where they will most probably be decapitated for some old offences, for which they had been previously imprisoned there; they escaped only a short time ago, as they had not been many days in Shanghai before the Hongkew affray took place. The men were conveyed this morning from the gaol in the City to the steamship Hacail, lying at the China Merchants Wharf; one of them was put on board between one and two o'clock, and the other about an hour later. They were both confined in huge wooden eages, and if their transport through the streets had taken place in the daytime, they would no doubt have attracted as much attention as though they had been Royal Bengal Tigers. Miss Nellie Reid's Benefit took place at Signor Chiarini's Circus last night, and the attendance was the largest everseen, -a fact which is chiefly accounted for by the reduction in prices. The performance was a most successful one, the fair beneficiaire introducing the splendidly trained horses "Captain" and "Garibaldi." The former was ridden by Miss Reid, and the latter introduced in liberty. "Monte Christo" was to have been introduced, but this fine Kentuckian horse, which has only made one appearance in public here, has gone lame, and "Captain" was taken in his stead. Our readers are already quite familiar with the exhibitions of hippic training in which Miss Reid has won great admiration, and it is needless for us to say more about her gracefulness and skill as an equestrienne; the has won. the highest praise in the best circuses in Europe, and that is saying a great deal. United States Jail, Washington, D.C., June 3 Mh.—Guiteau was very restless during the most of the latter part of the night, not sleeping more than twenty minutes at a time. Towards morning he fell into a sudden sleep from sheer exhaustion, He arose at five and breakfasted heartily at 6.30, when the servant cooked his breakfast in his cell. Guiteau told him to bring dinner in at eleven o'clock promptly,

At 9.15 the prisoner came out in the corridor and exercised for fifteen minutes. He walked very briskly, and made it rather difficult for the guards to keep pace with him. John W. Guiteau arrived at the jail at nine o'clock, and was followed in a few minutes by Warden Crocker. These two gentlemen, with Hicks, had a consultation as to the disposition of the body.

At 11 a.m., Mrs. Scoville, Guiteau's sister, who had said yesterday, that she would not come to see the hanging, appeared at the jail door and demanded to be admitted, but admittance was refused her.

The office of the jail was given completely up to the reporters. Some reporters remained over night. The private office of the Warden was transformed temporarily into a telegraph office.

At nine o'clock there was a constant stream of persons coming into the jail. The scene outside was like that of some gala occasion. Enterprising colored men had erected booths, from which refreshments were sold to weary and thirsty people. There were mounted messengers speeding to and from the city, and carriages bringing visitors to the jail.

Early this morning the prisoners in that part of the jail looking on the court where the gallows stands were all removed to other quarters and locked in their cells. At nine o'clock this morning the jail officers had a rehearsal of the part they are to play in the execution, for the purpose, chiefly, of testing the appliances of the gallows. A bag of sand weighing 163 pounds was attached to the noose and the trap was sprung, by means of a trigger-rope, which was passed into one of the cells of the north wing.

At 10 o'clock Dr. Hicks and John W. Guiteau went with General Crocker to the scaffold, with the number of guards. John W. Guiteau ascended the steps and carefully examined the structure, handling and inspecting all the fixtures both above and below the platform.

A telegram from New York, signed J. B. Bunnell, was received about ten o'clock by Dr. Hicks to ask if the sender could obtain possession of Guiteau's body to exhibit for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association. Dr. Hicks paid no attention to the message.

Guiteau begged to arrange his dress by putting on a pair of navy blue trousers. At 10.30 o'clock the guard came out of the door and said: "He is ready for Dr. Hicks now and wants the flowers to come." Another guard, who took the message, .-hurried off and soon returned with Hicks, who went into the cell. Guiteau was then reported by the guard to be apparently very composed.

After a short conference with Crocker, John W. Guiteau went outside of the jail to see his! sister. He found her in great excitement, bordering on hysteria; but for a short time he succeeded in calming her and dissuading her from any attempt to witness the execution. She acknowledged the propriety of such a course, but said she could not possibly remain in the city during all the wretched hours of the morning. She brought with her the flowers which Guiteau asked for, and they were taken to the prisoner.

Washington, June 30th, 11.35 a.m.-While Dr. Hicks was in the prisoner's cell at 11 b'clock, Guiteau made some requests as to the execution and the hangman. Having made copies of his "Last Prayer," the poem, and other writings, he tore up the originals. - He then sent for the jail boot-black and gave him his shoes to be shined. His dinner was brought as the doctor was leaving, and he are it with much relish. His dinner consisted of a pound of broiled steak, a dish of fried potatoes four slices of bread, and a quart of coffee.

Dr. Hicks, when he came out of the cell, said the prisoner had not the slightest fear. "We have had a pleasant, religious talk. He feels now that his preparations are completed and he is now ready for the last formality."

Shortly before 12 o'clock, Guiteau seemed to break down completely and burst into tears, sobbing hysterically. Dr. Hicks sat by his side fanning him, and vainly trying to calm him.

About 11.30, preparations began to be made for the execution. At 11.50, a detachment of troops was formed on the east side of the rotunda and brought their muskets to parade rest. About that time two hundred and fifty people were in the rotunda. Dr. Hicks was with the prisoner engaged in prayer. Guiteau showed great nervousness and appeared greatly startled when he heard the rattle of the muskets on the stone floor of the rotunda. From that moment Guiteau appeared throughly overcome with emotion.

The scene in the rotunda, while waiting for the prisoner, was one long to be remembered. The soldiers were drawn up on one side in a long line, the spectators facing them on the other. It was understood that Guiteau was very much depressed, and it was expected that this passage to the gallows would present a very distressing The door was watched with eager atten-After the death warrant was read by the Warden the prisoner became more composed, 2nd instant, at 3.30 P.M. and turning away began to brush his hair.

At 12.21 a loud steam whistle was blown at the Workhouse, which is near the Jail. This whistle usually blows at 12 o'clock, and by it Guiteau was in the habit of gauging his time. The delay to-day was by special arrangement, so that its startling summons might not come before the officers were ready. Two minutes later the day, the 4th instant, at 3.30 P.M. fron gates at the end of the corridor clicked, and then Warden Crocker made his appearance, and a moment later the familiar form of Guiteau was His face was pallid, and the muscles about the mouth moved nervously; other than this, there was no sign of faltering. The procession moved quickly to the scaffold, and Guiteau ascended the somewhat steep steps with as much stendiness as could be expected from a man whose arms were tightly pinloned. At the last | sedes all previous editions.

step he faltered for a moment, but was assisted by the officers, who walked up on the other side.

Upon reaching the platform, Guiteau was placed immediately behind the drop, facing the front of the scaffold. Captain Coleman stood upon his right, Robert Strong upon his left, and Woodward directly behind him. Jones took a position on the north side, near an upright beam. Warden Crocker took his position at the southeast corner of the structure. There was a slight delay while the spectators were pushing and jostling through the door leading from the retundato the corridor, at the lower end of which the gallows was placed. Guiteau meanwhile gazed upon the crowd, looked up at the beam over his head, and quickly made a survey of all the dread paraphernalia.

As soon as the crowd gained access, General Crocker waved to them to uncover, and allheads were bared. Dr. Hicks then offered up a prayer. During the prayer, Guiteau stood with bowed head. At its conclusion, Dr. Hicks opened the Bible, and Guiteau, in firm tones, said: "I will read a selection from the tenth chapter of Matthew, from the twenty-eighth to the forty-first verses, inclusive." He then read in a clear, strong goice, and with good intonation, showing little, if any, nervousness. Dr. Hicks then produced the manuscript which was prepared by the prisoner this morning, and held it before him while Guiteau read. While Dr. Hicks was arranging the manuscript, Guiteau 'exhibited a slight nervousness and moved several times from one foot to the other. He soon recovered his composure, and looked over the sea of upturned faces. He said :- "I am now going to read to you'my last dying prayers." He then read in a loud tone, and with distinct and deliberate emphasis, what may trafy be termed the climax of blasphemy, too frightful to be printed. The attendants then pinioned his legs and carefally adjusted the noose about his neck. Mr. Strong placed the black cap over his head, and, as he did so, Guiteau called out, in loud tones: "Glory! glory! glory!" Instantly the trap was sprung. The body turned partly around, but there was not the slightest perceptible motion of the limbs.

When the drop fell, a yellwas sent up by some persons inside the jail. This was re-echoed outside by a thousand or more people, who hurraned lustily. There was a general onslaught by the populace upon the jail doors. The officers were unable to withstand it, and a hundred people crowded into the office. For at least forty seconds after the drop fell the body hung motionless. Then there was a slight motion of the shoulders and legs, due to muscular contraction. Three minutes after the drop fell the body was lowered to be examined by the physicians. There was a decided action of the heart for fully fourieen minutes, and the pulse fluttered two minutes longer. When the body had hung with the feetgiust touching the ground over half an hour, it was lowered into a coffin which was waiting for it under the scaffold." The physicians decided that the neck had been broken when the body was lowered. The black cap was removed and the face exposed. The features were pallid and composed. About the mouth there was considerable moisture. After the body had been arranged in the coffin, Warden Crocker ascended the steps of the scaffold and addressing the crowd, said :- " Those who desire can view the body." Then the crowd of spectators was formed into line, and passing between the scaffold and the wall of the jail, viewed the remains. Some of the jail officers, two or three physicians, and Dr. Hicks stood about the cossin. John W. Guiteau joined this company and fanned his brother's face to keep away the flies. J. W. Guiteau did not go on the scaffold, but stood during the scene just without the line of officers at the bottom of the steps.

When liberty was given to the crowd to view the body, the scaffold was at once filled with people, who curiously examined every joint and

At 1.40 p.m. the lid of the coffin was put in place, and the body borne to the jail chapel, where the physicians who are to make the autopsy were assembled. After the body was taken to the chapel, arrangements were made to let Mrs. Scoville view it.

Mr. MOORE begs to recommend his GOGO SHĂMPOO WASH to the public as unrivalled by any prepara tion ever produced for promoting the growth of the hair. The basis of this compound is made of soap root; the natives of the Philippine Islands never use anything else for washing their hair; they are never found bald. and it is quite common to see the females with hair from 5 to 6 feet long. By constantly using this Shampoo Wash as directed, you will NEVER HE BALD. The proprietor offers the Wash to the public entirely consident that by its restorative properties it will without fail arrest decaying hair. It completely eradicates scurf, dandruff, and cures all diseases of the scalp. It does not contain any poisonous dugs. By its cooling properties it allays the itching and fever of the scalp, which is the great cause of people losing their hair.

Mr. Moore has succeeded in being able to put this wash up in bottles without allowing it to ferment, and he will guarantee it to keep any length of time in any climate.
